Some Success State Moves for Integration

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Negroes met with spotty success Wednesday in continued attempts to end segregation in the Arkansas cities.

Racial barriers fell at two Fort Smith restaurants, but Negroes representing the Congress Racial Equality were not served in the white section of another restaurant.

There was no trouble at Fort Smith.

At Forrest City, a public pool for whites only was scheduled to be open on a segregated basis today. It closed Tuesday when Negroes requested permission to swim there.

"We don't know how we'll keep it that way (segregated)," said Forrest City Mayor Rogers Dandridge.

Police Chief George Trusty said Wednesday night that a Negro's truck was overturned Tuesday night in connection with an attempt to desegregate a Forrest City bowling alley.

There were no injuries or arrests, Trusty said. He declined to elaborate.

Howard Kessinger, owner of Forrest Lanes bowling alley at Forrest City, said his place had been desegregated because no Negroes had ever tried to bowl there.

He said some Negroes came in this week to bowl, but did not because all the lanes were in use by bowling leagues.

"I would let Negroes bowl if they came in when a lane was not in use," Kessinger said.

Negroes were served at the Broadway Restaurant and Dinty Moore's in Fort Smith. They tried to be served in the front section of the City Barbecue, but were not served, and left quietly.

A spokesman for the restaurant said he had a section where Negroes could and have been served for the past 25 years.

The management of the Broadway said Negroes had been served there before.

CORE is engaged in a series of tests of the civil rights law in Fort Smith. Negroes swam in the once-segregated Creekmore Park Swimming Pool Monday.

Eighteen Negroes quietly desegregated the Ritz Theater in downtown wfg nsqsk Tuesday night. Several white persons left when they learned Negroes were in the audience, but there was no trouble.

Negroes ate at once-segregated restaurants in Pine Bluff, Helena and Forrest City this week. Other public facilities at Benton and El Dorado were also desegregated this week.

Cuban Refugees Arrive at Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Forty-two refugees have arrived from Cuba this week in five small boats despite increased fortification of Cuban coasts.

Fishermen arriving from Havana Province Wednesday said a stretch of about 100 miles of the north coast is "solid with fortifications of concrete, wire, trenches, cannon, machineguns and tanks."

The Cuban Refugee Center said this week's arrivals brought to 7,000 the number of small boat escapees it has recorded since June 1961.

Gusty Winds Lash at Hot Springs Area

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winds gusting to hurricane force swept through Hot Springs Wednesday night, smashing a house and knocking down power lines.

Earlier Wednesday, a storm with winds clocked at 55 miles per hour hit Little Rock.

No injuries were reported. The U.S. Weather Bureau said winds at Hot Springs reached 75 miles per hour—qualifying as hurricane force on the bureau wind scale.

The house flattened at Hot Springs was newly completed and uninhabited.

Witnesses said a drive-in movie theater screen was blown down, two homes were struck by lightning and facilities of an amusement show at a shopping center were heavily damaged.

Hail up to one-half inch in diameter rained down on the resort city with heavy rain.

Hailstones up to three-fourths of an inch fell on Little Rock.

A spokesman for Arkansas Power & Light Co. said that about 10,000 customers lost electric service at Little Rock during the storm's peak, and about 800 were without electric power throughout Wednesday night.

Some of the electric substations in Little Rock were knocked out of action by the storm. Many power failures were caused by broken lines.

A rash of minor traffic accidents occurred at Little Rock during and shortly after the storm, Little Rock police reported.

Before the storm, temperatures soared to 105 degrees at Little Rock, setting a record for the fifth consecutive day. Little Rock got more than half an inch of rain in a 45-minute period during the storm.

Scranton Raps Extremists in Platform Talk

By EDMOND LEBRETON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton brings his underdog campaign for the presidential nomination to Republican delegates gathered here today.

Scranton has the floor of the Republican platform committee, where his outnumbered followers have been trying to build a launching pad for the kind of superthrust takeoff Scranton would have to achieve to catch up with Sen. Barry Goldwater by the time the convention votes next week.

The Pennsylvania's supporters have tried various gambits, all designed to hobble the front-running Arizona senator, but there was no sign they had made much impression on the platform committee. Most of its 105 members favor Goldwater. The Scrantonites kept thrusting, however, and some talked of a fight over the platform on the convention floor if they lose in the committee.

One ripple stirred the platform committee Wednesday when a pro-Scranton member accused it of railroad procedures and demanded changes. But the matter was quickly settled.

Rep. Silvio O. Conte of Massachusetts made the move and got the support of some committee members, mostly from the East. He especially demanded guarantees that the finished draft of the platform, being written under the direction of a 13-member executive committee, would be delivered to members in time for them to prepare amendments if they wished.

Later Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, platform committee chairman, conferred privately with Conte and afterward said there had been a misunderstanding and very little real disagreement. He said the procedures already agreed to give members more than the three hours suggested by Conte for drafting proposed changes before voting on the items in the platform being.

Conte promised he and like-minded members of the platform committee will offer a series of proposed planks and will never compromise on the content of major proposals. For example, he said, they will insist on a plank on extremist movements that denounces by name The John Birch Society.

Other proposed planks, he said, will deal with federal aid to education, retaining in presidential hands control over the use of nuclear weapons, opposition to a federal "right to work" law, and civil rights.

All these topics offer opportunities to challenge Goldwater on positions he has taken — or at least which his opponents say he has taken.

Laird said he hopes to have ready Friday night for committee consideration and possible approval the two first sections of the platform; a statement of principles and what the Republicans call an "indictment" of President Johnson's administration.

Then, Laird said, the committee would go back into closed session Saturday to consider the sections on domestic and on foreign policy and security matters. Laird was optimistic that the committee might have a document ready by Saturday night for submission to the convention.

Kills Man, Flees With License

NEW YORK (AP) — A motorist struck and killed a pedestrian Wednesday night, got out of his car, unscrewed the license plate, tucked it under his arm and walked off, police reported.

The victim was Irving Silverfarb, 63, of Manhattan, who was returning home from a grocery store with his wife, Celia.

Witnesses told police the car driver, a man in his late 20s, ignored the victim and abandoned his car in the middle of the intersection.

Thinks Most Morticians Are Honest

WASHINGTON (AP) — A New York clergyman said today that although most morticians perform their task honestly there are others "who must be stigmatized as ghoulish gravediggers" who prey on the living through the dead.

The Rev. Howard A. Johnson, canon theologian of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine (Protestant Episcopal), New York, told a Senate investigation into the funeral business that his criticism was not so much an attack on morticians "as it is upon us, the living."

"By our colossal ignorance of that which is taught in the church and in the synagogue," he said, "and by our tearful sentimentality in the face of death, (we) are guilty of leading some of the undertakers into temptation."

Most of America, he said, seems to be involved in a vast conspiracy to hush up the fact of death.

"Grief," he said, "causes the threshold of sales resistance to be low."

To show some of the facts of costs, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., chairman of the Senate Anti-trust and Monopoly subcommittee, released at today's final hearing a chart showing that costs of identical funeral services rose sharply as the price of the casket increased.

Rights Group Asks More Protection

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Explosions which injured two civil rights workers in McComb, Miss., have touched off demands for protection of youths involved in civil right work in Mississippi. About 500 youths from other states are involved.

Forty-one parents of youths from Northern California decided to ask President Johnson, Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California and their congressmen to assure protection for the young civil rights workers in Mississippi.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation sent an explosives expert to McComb to help with the investigation. There have been two other similar explosions but no arrests.

An avowed foe of the newly passed civil rights act was shot in the arm in Columbia, Tenn., Wednesday night.

Goldwater Says This Is Year for Republicans

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater flies to San Francisco today, insisting "nothing has been decided" about a vice presidential running mate should he win the Republican presidential nomination.

But sources high in the Goldwater team said Wednesday night the front-running Arizona senator thinks Rep. William F. Miller of New York "has some real good things going for him" or the No. 2 spot.

And Rep. Gerald R. Ford Jr. of Michigan still is a strong possibility, they said. The same sources said the choice boils down to one between Miller and Ford.

Miller, 47, is a Roman Catholic and chairman of the Republican National Committee. Ford, like Goldwater, is an Episcopalian.

The Goldwater sources said that as of now, Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, Goldwater's leading opponent for the presidential nomination, won't get the nod for the No. 2 spot "unless the convention forces him down our throat."

The word that "nothing has been decided" was relayed Wednesday night from Goldwater by his press aide, Tony Smith.

Goldwater has spent the last three days here-in virtual seclusion.

It ends today with a transcontinental flight for the Republican National Convention, an address to an airport welcoming crowd Goldwater aides hope will be 7,000 to 8,000 strong, and a news conference at his GOP National Convention headquarters.

Goldwater goes before the GOP platform committee Friday.

Denison Kitchel, Goldwater's campaign director, said he would not object to a platform plank criticizing extremism on both the right and the left—but not singling out any organization.

Scranton has called for a specific disavowal of the John Birch Society as an extremist group. The John Birch Society describes itself as an "educational army dedicated to opposing the Communist conspiracy."

Goldwater has steadfastly refused to disavow John Birch Society support, saying that it is operating within its constitutional rights.

The senator has said he disagrees with the society's leaders, but will not repudiate anyone who is not a Communist.

Questions Progress Under Orval

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Odell Dorsey, Democratic candidate for governor, challenged in a television speech here Wednesday night claims that Arkansas has progressed under the Faubus administrations.

Dorsey, of Sheridan, is one of three men opposing Gov. Orval E. Faubus' bid for a sixth straight nomination for governor in the Democratic primary July 28.

"I don't understand how we can be doing so well under this control when we are so far behind in everything," Dorsey said.

He said Arkansas ranked 44th in welfare payment, 46th in average income per person, and 49th in spending for education.

Faubus' first five terms have given Arkansas "the most centralized state government of any state I could mention," Dorsey said.

The governor frequently praises his administration, saying it has led Arkansas to an industrial boom.

"I'm in favor of industry," Dorsey said. "But I'd like to know how many jobs Arkansas lost during that time."

He said Faubus' candidacy was splitting the Democratic Party and driving many Democratic Party members over to the side of the Republican Party.

Joe Hubbard of Russellville and R.D. Burrow of Walnut Ridge also are Democratic candidates for governor. William Rockefeller is the Republican candidate.

This College Considered a Luxury

By MARGARET WILSON

ROCK HILL, S.C. (AP)—Winthrop College, South Carolina's state-supported college for women, may be considered a luxury in this age of mass higher education.

Winthrop President Charles Davis strongly disagrees but admits: "I don't know how long we can keep it this way; how long the taxpayers will stand for it."

Dr. Davis firmly believes that it is wrong to educate women as men are.

Davis took over at Winthrop in 1960. He had been quoted as saying: "In my judgment, nothing could be more frustrating than for a woman to find that she had spent four years in college learning how to be a successful man and then have to spend the rest of her life trying to learn by herself how to be a successful woman."

Winthrop, a liberal arts college, has teacher preparation and home economics as its main departments.

It is generally agreed that mounting enrollments and pressure from parents of prospective male students in the Rock

Hill area may prompt some modification of Winthrop's admission policy.

Some male students already attend evening classes and summer sessions, taking liberal arts courses. They are not eligible to receive degrees.

Winthrop trustees voted in 1962 to grant degrees to male students who satisfy requirements through only summer and evening classes. A change in state law is necessary to put the proposal in practice.

"We have no problems getting women students," said Walter D. Smith, dean of the college. Winthrop expects an enrollment of 2,410 this fall, an increase of about 300 over last year.

Dr. Smith said the college is operating near capacity but that if necessary its classroom facilities could absorb another 1,000 students providing additional faculty members are hired.

South Carolina, one of eight states supporting a women's college, also has all-male. The Citadel, The University of South Carolina and Clemson College are coeducational.

Comparative July Hasn't Been Hot Yet

By J. C. TILLMAN
Associated Press Writer

July 4, 5, 6 and 7—count 'em, four straight days 100 degree temperatures or above in Arkansas with more of the same forecast through Thursday.

But if you check the U. S. Weather Bureau records of a decade ago, July hasn't been hot at all yet. There were 16 days in July, 1954, when the temperature reached or topped 100 degrees. That was preceded by six century marks in June and followed by 21 such days in August. Even September had three days 100 or above.

That adds up to 46 days of ultra-hot weather in 1954.

This summer hasn't been quite so hot, but appears headed for the dubious honor of another scorcher.

In June the mercury hit 100 or over on the 11th, 23rd and 28th. The hot weather started on the 12th, when a 99 was recorded, topping the previous record of 98, set back in 1914.

On June 23, the previous high of 98 set in 1960 was broken, by a 100-degree reading.

Oddly, on June 2, in 1964 and 1894 the record low of 53 degrees was equalled.

Two record high readings sized at Little Rock this month. Both topping 1954 marks. They were a 104 reading, Monday, and a 105 recorded Tuesday. Previous high readings respectively were 101 and 103.

The temperature at Fort Smith Tuesday hit 106, a degree above the 105 mark recorded there in 1954.

The Weather Bureau's official records are for Little Rock only, but generally reflect the weather of the entire state.

Witness the report of the main weather stations around Arkansas Tuesday: Walnut Ridge 102, Pine Bluff 103, El Dorado 105, Texarkana 101.

What has the heat done? It apparently hasn't kept people indoors, since there have

City Commissioner Hugh Brewer said the rationing will affect Kavanaugh, Barling, Alma and customers of the Highways 64-71 Water Co. north of Van Buren.

Water to Van Buren, Mountainburg and Arkhoma also will be rationed, Brewer said, but these cities have ample storage facilities and will not feel the pinch.

Brewer said rationed water to city users will be withheld as long as possible.

Peace Force Agreeable to Russia

By MILTON BESSER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Authorizing dispatch of a peace force to a world hot spot now is accepted procedure at the United Nations. Even the Soviet Union appears to be agreeable at least in principle.

But putting a force together swiftly and assuring its efficiency are tough problems.

The United Nations has no standby military force for use in times of crisis, such as those in Cyprus and the Congo.

Western diplomats took deep interest this week in a Soviet memorandum calling for establishment of a permanent U.N. peace force under the control of the Security Council.

The U.N. charter says that members shall provide armed forces when the council decides they are needed to maintain world peace.

It provides for a military staff committee to aid the council on the strength, employment, and command of such forces. The committee is made up of five permanent members of the council—the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and Nationalist China.

The committee disagreed back in 1947 on how military contributions should be made to such a force. It continues to meet periodically at U.N. headquarters but only long enough to exchange formalities.

In 1950, the General Assembly gave itself the right to act to preserve peace when a big power veto paralyzed the council. Under that authority the assembly set up the U.N. emergency force in the Middle East in 1956 and the Congo force in 1960. But the job of setting up the force in each instance fell to the secretary-general and his staff and not to the military staff committee.

In the case of Cyprus it took Secretary-General U Thant 10 days after the Security Council authorization to obtain commitments for the seven-nation, 8,200-man force now on that eastern Mediterranean island. It took more than three weeks before the force became operative.

The delay was due in part to demands from contributing nations as to what their troops would be expected to do in a situation that verged on civil war, how long they would be needed, and how expensive the operation would be.

The contributors were told that they would have to pay the costs of maintaining their troops in Cyprus, because no U.N. money was available. Financial help was solicited from the wealthier countries. Contributions for the first three months included about $2 million from the United States and a million dollars from Britain.

To overcome this, the Scandinavian countries and Canada, with an approving nod from the United States, are organizing standby forces earmarked to go at the bidding of the United Nations.

The Soviet Union voted for the Cyprus contributed money or services.

It has refused to pay anything in the past toward the Middle East and Congo forces and faces a fight in the General Assembly next fall to keep its voting rights. The charter provides that any member two years in arrears in total dues shall lose its voting right.

Some diplomats speculate that the Soviet Union may be seeking the creation of a force to which it could make a financial contribution that would avoid, an assembly challenge. The Soviets also, undoubtedly are seeking to put the authority over the force back in the military staff committee and the council, where they have the big power veto.

Miss Groth Becomes Bride Of Barry Spraggins

Miss Elizabeth Ann Groth became the bride of Hendrix Barry Spraggins in a double-ring ceremony solemnized Sunday afternoon, June 28 in the Wesley Chapel of Grace Methodist Church, Springfield, Missouri. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert I. Groth of Springfield, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Hendrix A. Spraggins of Hope.

The Rev. Glen Jones performed the two o'clock ceremony before an altar decorated with arrangements of pompons, white stocks, and lemon leaves softly lighted by the glow of burning tapers. Candelligher was John Spraggins, brother of the bridegroom.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Ilah Dixon, organist, played a program of wedding music and accompanied Jack Burgess as he sang "Walk Hand in Hand" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a white sheath of imported Guipure lace styled with capped sleeves. The street-length gown was worn with a star-shaped headpiece of seedpearls, topped with two miniature bells and securing an elbow-length veil. The bride carried a colonial bouquet of gardenias and white rosebuds.

Mrs. Barry L. Holt of Kirkwood, Mo., attended as matron of honor, and Miss Jane Bareford was bridesmaid. They were gowned alike in dresses of pink peau do soie with lace overskirts. Single bands of pink rosebuds held their short veils in place. They carried cascade bouquets of Frenched carnations tied with pink satin ribbon.

Hendrix Spraggins served his son as best man. Dave Jokisch and Howard DeJager were ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Groth wore a dress of powder blue eyelet trimmed with bands of satin with matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Spraggins, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of champagne lace with matching accessories. Her corsage was of green cymbidium orchids.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church, where the serving table was covered with imported, embroidered white linen. The table was centered with an arrangement of pink carnations and white snapdragons, flanked by burning white tapers. The crystal punch bowl and the three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom were at either end of the table.

Miss Sharon Weber presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Dave Jokisch served the wedding cake. Miss Beverly Jones was in charge of the bride's book.

For her traveling ensemble the bride chose a royal blue linen suit with a flower print blouse and matching accessories. She pinned a gardenia corsage from her bridal bouquet at her shoulder.

The couple will live in Greenville, Texas for the summer, where the bridegroom is employed with the L & A Railroad. They both will resume their studies at Southwest Missouri State College in the fall. The bride will be a junior, is a member of Alpha Sigma Tau sorority, and is majoring in elementary education. Mr. Spraggins will be a senior, majoring in industrial management.

Pools Closed After Tries to Integrate

FORREST CITY, Ark. (AP)—The municipal swimming pool at Forrest City closed Tuesday after two carloads of Negroes sought to swim there.

The City Council voted Tuesday night to reopen the pool today on a desegregated basis, but Mayor Rodgers Deaderick commented, "We don't know how we'll keep it that way."

Forrest City was the third Arkansas city to close its pool because of a desegregation attempt. Pools at Pine Bluff and Little Rock have remained closed.

Spokesman for Forrest City Negro groups said that Negroes were Mr. and Mrs. Guy E. Basye, grandparents of the bridegroom.

Preceding the wedding on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Hendrix A. Spraggins entertained the wedding party and out-of-town guests at a rehearsal dinner on Saturday, June 27 at the Sycamore Inn in Springfield.

The bride's chosen colors, pink and white, were carried out in the table decorations. The honored couple presented gifts to their attendants at this time. Places were marked for 21 guests.

ses were Mr. and Mrs. Guy E. Basye, grandparents of the bridegroom.

Little Chance But Scranton Keeps Trying

By JACK BELL

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gov. William W. Scranton went on thumping the drums hopefully today but Sen. Barry Goldwater's supporters plowed confidently toward their goal of a first ballot presidential nomination for the Arizona senator.

In the face of Scranton's declaration that an "overwhelming number of Republicans seem to think that I ought to be nominated and I think I ought to be, too," the Goldwater forces brought up a vigorous dissent.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska, the Arizona senator's convention floor manager, said that "we have got more than enough" delegate votes for the nomination "but we want more."

"We want to make the most impressive showing possible on the first ballot when Sen. Goldwater will win the nomination," he said.

Although Curtis declined to deal in numbers, Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., another Goldwater strategist, said in a separate interview "we've got more than 700 and we're getting more." A total of 65 convention votes is needed for the nomination. Scranton, the Pennsylvania governor, was a late starter in the contest for the GOP presidential nomination. In his efforts to win away some of Goldwater's supporters by personal campaigning, Scranton flew into San Francisco Wednesday saying he can wrest the nomination from Goldwater and can win in November.

At a sweltering, jam-packed gathering in the swank Mark Hopkins Hotel, the Pennsylvanian said he is "ready to win the nomination and I am ready to win in November."

Scranton has been emphasizing an interview Goldwater gave a German news weekly in which he said he doesn't believe, "as of now," that any GOP candidate can defeat President Johnson, but that it might be an entirely different story in November.

The hard truth of Goldwater's statement is acknowledged by almost every Republican willing to comment on it privately. But they add that this is not something a leading candidate for the party nomination should be saying publicly.

But Curtis said he found in a careful check that this incident has caused no perceptible rallying in Goldwater's delegate support. He said the Arizona senator was only making a frank, truthful analysis of the situation as it stands today.

Smith Plans to Rejoin the Colts

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - Billy Ray Smith, who dropped out of professional football last year, said Wednesday he would rejoin the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League.

Smith, a native of Augusta, Ark., and a former University of Arkansas star, played defensive end and tackle with the Colts for two seasons.

He said he was going back to pro ball because he had a good offer from the Colts; a business opportunity in Baltimore, Md., home of the Colts; and a chance to build up more time under the NFL's new pension plan.

Smith weighs 250 pounds.

Written For Associated Press
HOLLYWOOD (AP) - I have the uneasy feeling that people think of me as the world's worst surrump.

It's no wonder. I used to be a pretty cheerful fellow. That was before I ran into the status symbol game.

It's the modern version of keeping up with the Joneses. It's guaranteed to make a nervous wreck out of anyone.

If you have the right status symbols, you worry for fear they'll go out of date before you can pay for them. If you have the wrong ones - well, look at me. I'm a nervous wreck.

I got the clue early on what to expect when I went out to buy a house.

"How old is it?" I asked the real-estate salesman. "This was built by Shepperd Strudwick," he answered, as though that made the house a cut above a Frank Lloyd Wright.

"Oh," I said, "is he a well-known local architect?" Turned out Strudwick is a fine actor, who I'm sure would rather be known for his work than for a house. But that's how it goes in Hollywood.

When I finally did buy a house I got quite a bit of status because it used to belong to Cara Williams. And Natalie Wood lived on the corner.

Animals are very important for status in Hollywood. French poodles used to be the thing. Then the Group went to Schnauzers. I got in on the wave with a wonderful miniature Schnauzer named Fred.

But now it's chic to have a mongrel or a beagle - anything, really, with long ears.

It's most important to collect art and I do. But all the artists I collect are living, so I'm not quite In. I do have a little etching by Rembrandt and I carefully point it out to people.

They told me I'd have to have a pool in Hollywood, so I hurried to put one in. After hauling all the rock and arranging all the piping and getting it landscaped, I found out they meant a swimming pool - not a fish pool.

I don't know how much longer I can stay in the race. I have an old convertible, but for status, you need a new convertible. I've ordered a new one but I'm afraid by the time I get it the mode will be back to old convertibles.

The Usher Board of Bee Bee Memorial C.M.E. Church will sponsor a wiener roast at the home of Miss Mary Maxwell Saturday, July 11, at 7 p.m.

On Sunday, July 12, KXAR will present a special program of interest to local people, on "The Concert Time" broadcast at 1 p.m. "Cabin in the Sky" the Broadway musical, with an all Negro cast, one of which is Ketty Lester.

Who is Ketty Lester? People in this area know her as Revodina Frierson, a native of Patmos, Arkansas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Frierson, and a 1955 graduate of Yerger High School. She has been making the headlines on the West Coast for several years. This is her first Broadway show, and is receiving good reviews. She appeared on the Rudy Valee TV Show, "This is Broadway," last night, at 9 p.m.

Don't fail to tune your radio to KXAR Sunday at 1 p.m.

The Garrett Chapel Gospel Hour will observe its ninth anniversary Sunday, July 12, with a special broadcast, live from KXAR beginning at 1:30 p.m. and continuing until 3 p.m.

Brother F. R. Williams, the pastor, has indicated that there will be special music and singers taking part.

There will be an appeal by the church for its friends to help in maintaining the broadcast and the work of the church in this community. The broadcast has many listeners all over southwest Arkansas. Plan now to call in your contribution.

PARIS - George Paques, 50, a former French press officer for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, has been convicted of spying for the Soviet Union and sentenced to life in prison.

In rejecting the prosecution's demand for the death penalty, the French state security court apparently accepted defense arguments that Paques was motivated by misguided patriotism.

Paques was arrested last August. He admitted passing documents to Soviet agents but said he hoped to prevent Soviet misunderstanding of the Western Allies' true intentions.

TAIPEI, Formosa - The Chinese Nationalist air force said today it would continue reconnaissance flights over Communist China despite the loss of another U2 plane, the third claimed by the Communists.

Peking Radio said the high-altitude U2 was shot down at noon Tuesday. There was no official speculation in Taipei that the plane had been downed by a ground-to-air missile, but the Nationalist air force would say only that it "met with an accident."

LONDON - The channel ferry Arromanches gave 677 French schoolchildren an unexpected thrill today. It ran aground off the south coast of Britain.

The rising tide refloated the 2,404-ton ship and the children were landed at Newhaven Pier. There were no casualties.

MOSCOW - The head of the Soviet Union's Aeroflot airline says Russian designers are working on a supersonic airplane named Fred.

Orioles Given Good Chance to take Yanks

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

When Hank Bauer played in his first of nine world Series, Wally Bunker was 4 years old. Bunker is 19 now and is the surprising ace of Manager Bauers pitching staff in the Baltimore Orioles' drive for their first American League pennant.

The Orioles, three games in front of second-place Chicago and third-place New York, battle Cleveland tonight in a doubleheader. Bunker, 8-2, is slated to pitch the second game with Milt Pappas going in the opener.

A $70,000 bonus baby, Bunker got his chance to start earlier this season when injuries riddled Bauer's staff. Neither Bunker nor Bauer ever could have received a better break.

For Bauer, the break could lead to his first Series since 1958 and his first as a manager.

The season, of course, is not even half over for the AL contenders. A three-game lead to day could be a three-game deficit next week. But the Orioles must be considered a threat to dethroning the perennial champions, the Yankees.

With Bunker leading the pitching staff and Brooks Robinson and Boog Powell pacing the hitters, the Orioles have been in first place except for five days since June 14. They haven't been lower than second since May 19.

The race seems to have settled down to a three-way battle—Baltimore, Chicago and New York.

The White Sox, though, may be frustrated by the Yankee complex. That's the feeling that says Chicago just can't beat New York. The White Sox may not really feel it, but it is fact.

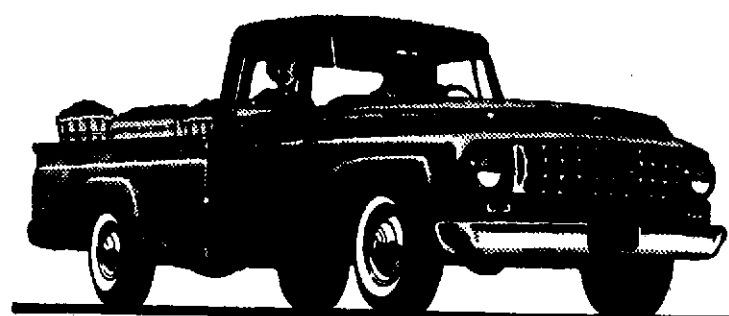

The Yankees, on the other hand, indicated in the last series with the Orioles that it's not time for their pennant drive. After blowing a 3-2 lead in the eighth one night, they came back the next night and lost 7-4 when two errors gave the Orioles three runs in the eighth.

Put that kind of play together with such positive performances as a pair of one-hitters by a 19-year-old like Bunker, and you have a solid reason why Baltimore is in front.

No games were scheduled in the AL Wednesday night, but in the National League, San Francisco dropped a 2-0 decision to Chicago before winning 7-2 and Pittsburgh trounced Cincinnati 9-1.

Hope Junior Legion Beats Texarkana

The Hope Junior American Legion downed the Texarkana team last night at Fair park by a close 3-2 score. Mutt Wassell was the winning hurler and Couch was the loser.

Texarkana got two runs on seven hits and Hope managed three on seven. In the top of the first Harris got on via a fielder's choice and scored on Green's hit. Hope's end of the first saw Jerry Burnett single and score on Buddy Jordan's double off the left field fence.

In the third Burnett single to center and advanced to third on an error and scored on a wild pitch. In the bottom of the fourth, Larry Thrash singled and Mutt Wassell tripled him home. The visitors scored their second run in the fifth on a single by Gross and Perkins. Gross had two hits for the visitors while Thrash and Burnett had two each for Hope.

Again Door Closed to Open Tennis

VIENNA (AP)—The International Lawn Tennis Federation again has closed the door on open tennis.

In three sweeping decisions Wednesday, the ILTF turned down proposals to open amateur tennis tournaments to professional players, threatened sanctions against countries refusing to play others for political reasons and decided to ask that tennis be restored to the Olympic program for the first time since 1924.

Two British proposals for open tournaments, supported by France and other countries, were turned down by large votes at the federation's annual Congress. The United States and Australia were strongly opposed to the plans.

Cubs May End Season With 3 20 Game Men

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

At their current pace, the Chicago Cubs will win only 74 games but may wind up with three 20-game winners.

Bob Buhl became the third member of the Cubs' staff to reach the 10-victory plateau at the halfway mark of the season when he shut out San Francisco 2-0 on four hits Wednesday before the Giants took the second game of the doubleheader 7-2. Bringing his record to 10-4 with his third shutout, Buhl joined teammates Larry Jackson, 11-5, and Dick Ellsworth, 10-8, as possible 20-game winners and gave the Cubs a shot at duplicating a feat that hasn't been accomplished in the National League in 41 years.

Not since the 1923 Cincinnati Reds has a NL team had a trio of 20-game winners. Adolfo Luque won 27, Pete Donohue 21 and Eppa Rixey 20 on that club. The last American League club to do it was Cleveland with Bob Lemon, Early Wynn and Herb Score, each winning 20 in 1956.

Significantly, neither the Reds nor the Indians won pennants. Both finished second. The Cubs, however, currently are tied for seventh place—with good reason. While Buhl, Jackson and Ellsworth have accounted for 31 victories, the remainder of the staff has put together only six.

Ernie Broglio, the heralded trade acquisition from the St. Louis Cardinals who was supposed to step in as the No. 4 man, hasn't won as a Cub. He lost his fourth straight as Willie Mays powered his 24th homer for the Giants in the nightcap, called after seven innings because of darkness at the lightless Wrigley Field.

The triumph—ending the Giants longest losing streak of the season at four games—kept second-place San Francisco 1 1/2 games back of the front-running Philadelphia Phillies, who were rained out of a scheduled game with St. Louis.

In the only other game scheduled in either league, home runs by Manny Mota and Willie Stargell triggered Pittsburgh to a 9-1 victory over Cincinnati.

Buhl, 10-4, got the only run he needed in the opener when Joe Amalfitano doubled in the first off Bob Hendley, moved up on a sacrifice and scored on a single by Ron Santo. Buy Williams, who previously had stroked a single and double, wrapped up the scoring in the seventh with his 20th homer.

The Giants stormed back in the nightcap, tagging Broglio, 3-9, for five runs and six hits in the first two innings. Mays' homer, with two on in the second, gave him a league-leading 58 runs batted in and proved more than enough support for Ron Herbel, 7-4.

Mota started the scoring for the Pirates with a two-run homer off Jim Maloney in the first with a three-run shot in the sixth. Bob Veale, 8-6, and Al McBean held the Reds to four hits.

Things heat up (in Southeast Asia) with the chips on the line, would Russia support the Chinese?" he asked.

Red China could become the world's No. 1 power "if it got control of the breadbasket of Southeast Asia," Felt said. This is the food-and-mineral rich area of Viet Nam, Laos, Cambodia and Thailand.

He believes a major obstacle in the fight against Communist aggression in South Viet Nam is lack of leadership outside Saigon. "A big problem is to get people to go into the villages and administer these areas honestly," he said.

"The people living outside major cities in Southeast Asia are just now beginning to realize what the fighting is all about," Felt said. He stressed the importance of providing them with material things—a well, a road, a hospital, a schoolhouse.

The admiral thinks the U. S. military effort should be followed up by civilian advisors to help rural populations.

"But all this takes time," he said. "The programs are all there but they have to be implemented."

Looking farther north, Felt discussed the problems of Korea. He made two points:

—The economic situation in Korea is not good. Yet the country is maintaining a large military force that costs the Koreans—and the United States—a lot of money.

—North Korea has built up modern jet air force, making South Korea vulnerable to air attack.

Felt said South Korea's generals have emphasized to him that the level of their forces must be maintained. If forces are reduced, will the Communists try another invasion? Felt thinks they very likely would.

GOPs Vow Viet Nam to Be An Issue

By LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Many Republican leaders agree that the Johnson administration's conduct of the anti-Communist guerrilla war in South Viet Nam will be an issue in the presidential campaign.

But they do not agree on what line of attack to follow.

Some have called for an expansion of the U.S. effort in terms of geography and intensity. Some contend that present policy is all right but that a Republican administration could implement it better. And some have called for withdrawal of U.S. forces or a negotiated settlement.

And at least one prominent Republican, Henry Cabot Lodge, has maintained that he does not see how Viet Nam could be an issue in this election.

But Lodge, who quit as ambassador to the embattled Southeast Asian nation to help the campaign of Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania for the GOP presidential nomination, agreed Sunday that Viet Nam "is a legitimate subject to discuss and debate." But he still did not view it as a major issue.

President Johnson and such administration spokesmen as Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara have made it plain in recent weeks that the United States will continue its efforts to support the anti-Communist government of South Viet Nam. And they have left the door open to carrying these efforts to North Viet Nam.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the front-running candidate for the GOP nomination, has contended that under present policies "We'll be fighting in Viet Nam for a decade, and, at best, we'll end up with a draw or a slow defeat."

He has called several times for bombing of the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas' supply lines from North Viet Nam, Cambodia, and if necessary, Communist China.

Scranton, Goldwater's closest rival for the nomination has said "we must give all practical support to efforts by the South Vietnamese to end the use of Laos, Cambodia and North Viet Nam as privileged sanctuaries."

Shockley Is Shocker to Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Costen Shockley and Norm Gigon each slapped a pair of home runs as Arkansas slugged out a 13-3 Pacific Coast League baseball victory over Indianapolis here Wednesday night.

Gigon and Shockley each connected for homers in the first inning—each with a man on base. Shockley led the third inning with a double and the Travelers went on to score three more runs. Shockley also homered in the seventh. Gigon homered in the ninth. And Pat Corrales homered in the ninth for Arkansas.

Almost Got That Perfect Game

ANDERSON, Mo. (AP)—Jim Wyatt, once a minor leaguer owned by the Kansas City A's, came as close to a perfect game as it's possible Wednesday night in a semi-pro game.

Wyatt retired the first 26 batters to face him, then struck out the 27th batter but the ball got through catcher Butch Todd and the man reached first. The right-hander retired the next man to preserve his no-hitter. His Anderson team beat Grove, Okla., 3-0.

Congress Hike in Justices

JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—They're not new, but even when they're new, the Supreme Court justices never give the public an opinion now on what the Senate just did to them. They never express it from the bench.

Over the years, particularly since the ban on public discussion, the court has been criticized, heckled and abused. There have even been suggestions to lynch Chief Justice Warren.

But the court has gone on making new enemies with new decisions like the one banning the reading of the Bible and the Lord's Prayer in public schools.

Each decision seemed to irritate some members of Congress who proposed to retaliate by changing all the way from respecting the court's authority to constitutional amendments to undo what it did.

At one time, the court seemed unscathed, and no one suspected a place never suspected a pocketbook.

This year the court had surprised itself in irritating Congress. At least some members of it, by a landmark decision showing how far the court is willing to go if Congress won't act, to assure equal treatment to people.

It was a decision requiring states to reshuffle their congressional districts from which members of the House of Representatives are elected.

The court wants: the districts reshuffled according to population to give voters more equal representation in the House. "One voter, one vote," is the court's philosophy. In the rearranging of present members of the House may lose their jobs.

But the court's opinion does not affect senators. Each state, large or small, is entitled to two senators. They're elected statewide, not by districts, and population has nothing to do with it.

Oddly enough, it was the Senate, not the House, which decided to get tightfisted with the justices. Earlier this year, President Johnson pushed Congress to pass a federal pay-raise bill. It would mean a boost for more than 1.7 million people on the government pay roll, including the justices, federal judges, members of Congress, Cabinet members and other executives.

To do this the House voted $53 million, the Senate $54 million. Because there was a difference the two houses will have to iron it out. The final agreed-on total will be voted perhaps later this month.

So far so good. But the House and Senate didn't see eye to eye on a raise for the justices, eight of whom get $35,000 a year. The chief justice gets $35,500. The bill both houses considered called for raising them all $7,500.

While the House approved, the Senate cut the raise to $2,500. Although it voted a full $7,500 for 47 other federal judges, active and retired. Both houses voted themselves a $7,500 raise, from $28,500 to $30,000.

The swipe at the justices was engineered by Sen. Gordon Allott, Colorado Republican, who justified his action by arguing a justice has his pay for life, active or retired, and that he gets a vacation three months a year. But this is what other federal judges get, too. Another argument he made was that the $35,000 paid justices was of proportion with the $22,000 being paid members of the House and Senate.

The House agrees and the justices wind up with only $2,500 more this is one act of Congress they won't try to knock out. They'd be more embarrassed to do it than was Congress when it did it.

BETWEEN FLOORS

By Grace Krieger

With a bucking jolt, the elevator in the fashionable Clarendon Apartments stopped and remained stubbornly stalled between the fourth and fifth floors. Mrs. Hilda Stowers was alone in the oak-paneled elevator and virtually its prisoner.

The impatient matron, annoyed with the delay, jabbed the push button marked "lobby". Nothing happened. Becoming more irritated, she began punching other knobs. When the concealed ceiling lights dimmed diabolically, she realized that the main power was off. She was trapped.

"Why did this elevator go out of service now?" she asked herself belligerently. "Just when I'm rushing to keep one of the most important appointments of my life!"

Soon Juan would be pacing the airport, anxious to learn of her decision before he jetted back to his homeland. He had demanded (yes, demanded!) to know, this very afternoon, if she would marry him. For several evenings she had managed to cleverly hedge his proposal. There just hadn't been time to consider the matrimonial offer while she was being swept along in his whirlwind courtship.

Now she'd never meet him on time! The fact that she was an overweight 54-year-old widow, hurrying to see her dashing (though somewhat bald) 58-year-old Latin admirer, did not diminish the romantic significance of the date.

Mrs. Stowers glared at her wristwatch. It was now 2:30 p.m. Juan's plane would depart in exactly 70 minutes.

"I must be calm," she advised herself. "If I could get out of this wretched elevator right now, and if there wouldn't be much traffic driving out to the airport."

Ahhh... the emergency bell! She pressed it determinedly. She waited. Then she remembered that the superintendent and his wife were visiting relatives in Pennsylvania.

Try shouting! With the fervor of a vitamin-fed hog-caller, she tossed her head back and belted. "Yoooo-Hooooo... I'm stuck in the elevator." She repeated this until her voice sounded hoarse and strained. Nobody answered.

Try kicking! There was no response. Try pounding! After removing her white gloves, she pummeled the door until her hands throbbed. Where is everybody? It was 2:45 p.m. Probably the older tenants are all in their suites, hypnotized by T.V. The School children should be coming home soon. Maybe the younger women, out shopping no doubt, will return now.

Are the walls of this cubical starting to slide in? Relax, Hilda, old girl. Don't get claustrophobia.

Keep busy. She emptied her purse and then placed all of the contents back into it, neatly. What does one do in a dead elevator to pass time.

Think! Yes, think about Juan. Dear Juan, whom you met only three weeks ago at the country club party. He certainly adds spice to your life. Yet, your mode of living is pleasant, comfortable and secure. After eight years of widowhood, you've accustomed yourself to the routine pattern you have established. Would you be happy if it were changed?

Juan offers a future of excitement, but he also blots out the past. Do you want to erase those bygone days? Those yesterdays are filled with fragrant memories, too cherished to destroy.

Juan presents a tomorrow full of challenges. Challenges mean readjustments, and sometimes a person your age just doesn't adjust. Are you too old to settle in a foreign land? Acclimate yourself to alien customs? Make new friends in a world of strangers?

And what about your children? No, they don't need you anymore, but you enjoy seeing them, and you do see them often. Wouldn't you miss your grandchildren, their birthday parties and their spontaneous telephone calls.

Juan is fascinating, but you are just a foolish old woman, flattered by unexpected attentions...

The chattering of women's voices brought Mrs. Stowers back to reality.

"Yooooo Hooooo... I'm stuck in the elevator!" She yelled, pounding and kicked frantically. The women heard and their tittering was replaced by reassuring phrases. Later a sympathetic voice called out, "The elevator people are on their way; dear... You'll be free shortly!"

It was too late to go to the airport. "Thank God," she reflected, "Thank God that I haven't time to meet Juan!" She had decided

New: A Movable Drinking Fountain

It's fun for the kids, and handy for Mom and Dad—a new portable drinking fountain that can be installed in the back yard or garden in 30 seconds.

Port-O-Fountain is completely movable, weighs only 4 lbs., and is installed by sticking its cast aluminum spear into the ground and connecting the intake pipe to a garden hose. It has a 10" x 6" bowl, chrome plated brass faucet and a galvanized intake pipe. An 8-foot flexible drain takes water from the immediate area and can be used to water flowers and shrubs. Manufacturer is Arat Enterprises of Villa Park, Illinois.

Nikita Seems to Be Having a Fine Time

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Despite all his obvious worries, Soviet Premier Khrushchev seems to be having an enormously good time.

Khrushchev is away from Moscow these days almost as much as he is at home. He looks almost like an executive thinking about retirement and determined to have a final, happy fling.

By his own admission, he feels his age. At his 70th birthday party April 17, he delivered a homily about his gratitude for attention paid him and his determination to work well to repay those who had faith in him. But he added that at 70, "a man hasn't much time left to pay back well for all he is given."

Not long before, he had noted that as he approached 70 he was feeling it and might not be able to hold the helm of party and state indefinitely.

Khrushchev now gives the impression that the machinery against their marriage and dreaded telling him in person. "It will be easier by letter," she rationalized.

Feeling buoyant now, her thoughts raced. "Let's see... I'll write... Dear Juan." (The End) of the Communist party and the Soviet government at home runs pretty well without his physical presence.

This year, Khrushchev has been away 10 weeks.

Early in January he went on a hunting trip in Poland. In March and April he toured Hungary.

In May, Khrushchev took a leisurely voyage to Egypt with his family and extended his stay to rest.

In June, he went to Leningrad to meet Yugoslav President Tito, then shortly after boarded the liner Eashkirta for an unhurried trip through Scandinavia. Khrushchev said in Sweden he intends to "go on leave" to his vacation hide-away on the Black Sea.

While Khrushchev is doing all this tripping about, who is minding the store?

At the top are men who could step easily into Khrushchev's shoes. These include Leonid I. Brezhnev, whose job as president of the Soviet government Presidium is becoming less and less ceremonial; Gennady Voronov, Dmitri Polyanski, Nikolai Podgorny, any of whom could be a prospective new premier.

To run the party he can rely on such men as M. A. Suslov and Leonid Ilyichev, who have long experience with ideological problems.

At the moment, there seems to be no threat to Khrushchev's position at the top.

Record No. Working But Jobs Are Few

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Finding a job is tougher this summer. That's so despite a gain in the number of jobs. A record of nearly 72 million Americans are at work.

The job scramble is rough because there are more students looking for them. There are always a lot when school lets out. This year there are more.

But beyond that, there are more adults entering the labor force just now. This happens whenever times are good and the number of jobs expands. That pulls a lot of off-and-on workers into the labor force. Since they usually have skills from earlier periods of employment, they are likely to get the jobs at the expense of the newcomers without experience.

The population growth by itself, and its specific manifestation of more students looking for summer work, would have pulled about 1.2 million more people into the labor force this summer than last. The Labor Department says that this time the force increased by 1.5 million over last year to a total of 72.4 million.

It reports that while employment went up by about 850,000 in June as outdoor jobs and recreational work opened up, unemployment advanced by 1.1 million.

The economy is running fast, but not fast enough in the job sector to hold even with the demand.

Some 800,000 of the unemployed are teen-agers, or 15 per cent of the youngsters looking for work.

The Labor Department indicates that high school graduates had better luck this year in finding jobs than did college graduates.

Disturbing to the department was the rise in unemployment among adult men. The teen-age problem was expected. Washington had hoped that the older men were in for better days.

The rate of unemployment among all men over 20 rose to 4 per cent of the labor force, compared with 3.6 per cent in May. The rise among adult women was only to 5.1 per cent from 5 per cent.

When the rate of unemployment for all ages dropped in May to 5.1 per cent, many had hoped that the long struggle to bring this down by an increase in economic growth was at last bearing fruit. In June there was unemployment of 1.1 million brought the total to 4.7 million.

The long struggle to get the jobless rate down to around 4 per cent of the labor force still is a tough one. The number of jobs increase. But those who want to fill them increase even faster.

“DEAR ABBY”

EVERYBODY ISN'T DOING IT:

By Abigail Van Buren
Dear Abby: Please save my sanity and tell me if I am wrong. I refused our 17-year-old son permission to invite his 16-year-old girl friend along on our family vacation to the New York World's Fair. We live in Colorado.

There seems to be a new fad taking root these days. Parents are trying to "prove" to their teenagers that they "trust" them, so they are letting them invite their steady on family trips. Our son claims that everybody else is doing it and now he is ashamed because his girl has already obtained her parent's approval, and I won't let him ask her. I would like your opinion of this whole idea.

NOT THAT MODERN
Dear Not: Picnics and one-day family outings are one thing, but family vacations are for families. I think your judgment was sound. Don't back down. Of all the weak-kneed reasons to do something, that old standby "everybody else is doing it" is by far the poorest.

Dear Abby: A socially prominent lady in this town is forever handling out those "Y'aww" come up and see me sometime invitations which of course, don't mean a thing. But what about the propriety of her ringing up my husband at his office and asking if "Y'aww" will come to dinner? Our home telephone number is in the book, but she has never called me. My husband says, "Oh, what's the difference?" I would appreciate it if you would please tell him (in your column) what the difference is. He thinks I'm jealous because she is a fun-loving, middle-aged widow and not too bad looking.

BATON ROUGE
Dear Baton: The "difference" is a matter of etiquette. Dinner invitations are properly extended to the wife. Tell your husband that the next time the "socially prominent lady" calls his office with a "Y'aww" come to dinner invitation, he should inform her that if "Y'aww" means both of you, she should call YOU.

Dear Abby: I am a young and attractive (I am told) widow. I have put away my engagement diamond and my wedding band and wear no jewelry on my hands whatsoever. It is evident that I am unmarried but for some reason every man I meet assumes that I am a divorcee. I have heard that one can buy a widow's hand, which is a plain black enamel ring to be worn on the wedding ring finger to signify widowhood. It would certainly simplify matters for me if you could tell me where I can buy one of these rings.

A WIDOW
Dear Widow: I have never heard of a "widow's hand." Don't worry about being regarded as a divorcee. You can straighten out the record with one well-timed sentence.

Dear Abby: I now learn from your column that I am "uncouth and ill-bred." That is how you described one who carries away the bread and rolls from a restaurant table. I take home the bread and rolls for the birds, so you hear this:

Boston (the city of culture, ha!) boasts that it has just poisoned and burned 10,000 city pigeons. If this is culture, I want to be a roughneck. San Francisco, named for St. Francis of Assisi, who loved birds,

Walnut Ridge to Get Swimming Pool

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark. (AP) Voters here passed 437-206 a $35,000 bond issue Tuesday to finance the purchase of a swimming pool. The bonds carry one-mill tax increase. Owners of the pool, which opened this year, said it lost money the two previous years.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"A Shot in the Dark" is another film starring Peter Sellers, who seems totally unable to make anything but hits. In this one he continues his "Pink Panther" portrayal of Inspector Jacques Clouseau, the greatest boost to crime since the introduction of the tommy gun.

There are dark hints that somebody up there in the French hierarchy is protecting Clouseau. How else explain why Clouseau is allowed to remain in charge of a murder investigation while freeing the sexy suspect and incurring several more corpses.

If this sounds like grisly fare, forget it. The murderous doings are embellished with so many slight gags that large chunks of dialogue are lost in the laughter.

"A Shot in the Dark" is not bellylaughs all the way. Clouseau's maladroitness almost reaches repetition now and then, and the nudist camp sequence is curiously less funny than others.

Sellers is at the peak of his powers, proving he is as adept at sight comedy as he is with the oral kind. Elke Sommer and George Sanders offer a high degree of sex and suavity. Herbert Lom is an absolute gem as Clouseau's bedeviled superior.

"The Moon-Spinners" offers another vehicle for Hayley Mills and for a vast number of moviegoers that is all that is necessary to know. The beguiling blonde, now 18 but still ingenuous and unaffected, remains a joy to behold.

This time she becomes involved in a lot of stealth about stolen jewels and murderous gangs on the isle of Crete. It is all studiously concocted of several parts scenery, a dash of romance, large supply of menace and a leavening of comedy. Nobody really comes to any harm—after all, this is Walt Disney—and even the finale is played for laughs, not thrills.

is also destroying pigeons in droves. And now, New York is following suit. Pigeons are one of God's ideas. They give us pleasure with their beauty and grace in flight. And they are smart. They are able to land on a tiny telephone pole wire, whereas it takes man about 400 acres to make a landing. You sound pretty stuff-shirted to me.

Barry Not Worried Over Platform

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater isn't worried about the Republican party platform, his campaign director said today.

Denison Kitchel said in an interview he doesn't think the forces opposing the senator in his front-running bid for the GOP presidential nomination have enough delegate strength to win adoption of platform planks aimed at embarrassing the Arizona.

Goldwater takes his conservative case to the resolutions committee Friday morning. He will fly to San Francisco Thursday. Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton has demanded platform planks repudiating "extremist groups of both the left and the right" with a specific condemnation of the John Birch Society; and declaring the constitutionality of the new Civil Rights Act.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller seconded those proposals before the committee in San Francisco Tuesday but stopped short of calling for specific condemnation of the Birch Society, which describes itself as an "educational army—dedicated to opposing the Communist conspiracy."

He has said he disagrees with the leaders of the Birch society, but declared in San Francisco, March 15: "I will take the support of any American who is not a Communist."

Kitchel said a plank affirming constitutionality of the new law would be ridiculous because that is a judicial question, not a political one.

He said the suggestion that extremist groups be denounced would turn the platform into a long list of organizations.

'Steamroller' Tactics Laid to Goldwater

By RICHARD L. GRAVES

CHICAGO (AP) — Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton heads for San Francisco today to try to upset what he termed the "political steamroller" of Sen. Barry Goldwater at the Republican National Convention.

Scranton has challenged the front-running Arizona senator for the GOP nomination. Tuesday night in a nationally televised political program on NBC the governor accused Goldwater managers of "smears" and "every conceivable kind of pressure and threat" to keep the nomination from Scranton. The convention opens Monday.

Said Scranton: "They (the Goldwater managers) are trying to create a political steamroller unparalleled for its toughness, its callous-ness, its total disregard for the opinion of rank-and-file Republicans."

The governor declared that "every survey taken shows that I'm leading him in the number of rank-and-file Republicans—Republican voters that is—who would prefer that I be the candidate."

"Sen. Goldwater's managers know this, so they have undertaken a no-holds-barred campaign to see to it that the delegates at the convention do not reflect the wishes of the people back home."

Scranton said the Goldwater forces are circulating a pamphlet "that questions my patriotism." The pamphlet, said the governor, is produced by "extremists" who urge that the GOP convention be deluged with them.

One line of the pamphlet was quoted by Scranton as saying the governor has "a record of actions which prove his softness on communism."

"The American people will revolt against this kind of smear campaign," said Scranton.

Arkansas Netter Wins Two Matches

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Brenda Scisson of Crossett, Ark., top-ranked in the age 16 bracket, won two matches Tuesday in the Mississippi State Open Tennis Tournament.

She downed Nancy Fox 6-1, 7-5 in a first round match and topped Cathie Lytle 6-1, 6-2 in the second round.

Finals will be Thursday.

Mrs. JFK Would Avoid Crowds

NEW YORK (AP)—Sightseeing bus guides have been asked not to call attention to the hotel in which Mrs. John F. Kennedy will live when she moves here this fall.

City License Commissioner Joseph C. DiCarlo made the request Tuesday, saying: "The late president is entitled to the full dignity he deserves."

Crowds of tourists outside her Washington, D. C., home apparently were one of the reasons Mrs. Kennedy decided to move to New York City.

The U.S. $10,000 bill bears the portrait of Salmon P. Chase.

Petite luncheon sandwiches, accompanied by tiny fruits, dainty love tomatoes, and mushroom caps, will give an air of femininity and elegance to your summer luncheon. Deceptively simple, the luncheon sandwiches are spread with your favorite combinations of chicken and ham spread, then frosted with a blend of cream cheese and American blue cheese. The same zesty American blue cheese "frosting" is used to zip up the love tomatoes and mushrooms.

N., Russia Talk Over Army Forces

JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union appear to be moving into a new negotiation on the future makeup, organization and financing of U.N. military forces employed over the world to deal with threats to peace.

The two powers differ sharply on the extent of control which should be vested as a practical matter in the Security Council rather than the General Assembly and on some other issue.

The State Department authorized today they are encouraged by the latest Soviet move and believe that the Soviet government may be ready to open serious negotiations on these questions and to cooperate with the United Nations to a degree unknown in the past.

Officials are trying to gauge the Soviet Union's intentions in the light of its split with Red China and the fact that it is losing a vote in the United Nations because of refusal to pay assessments for past U.N. peacekeeping operations.

Disclosure of the Soviet move came Monday night with the release in Tokyo of a Soviet note to Japan calling for the formation of the U.N. military force under the Security Council, the troops to be supplied by the smaller U.N. members, including Communist countries. The five veto powers of the council would provide funds but no troops.

U.S. officials are still puzzled by the fact that the note was presented first to Japan and made public there by the Foreign Office.

The United States and Great Britain were not given official Soviet outlines of the proposal until Tuesday night.

She explained that the celebration was in honor of her husband and her living together for 50 years.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Today Jack Benny is the guest writer for Cynthia Lowry, who is on vacation.

By JACK BENNY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — We have many guest stars on my program. But before these personalities are scheduled to appear, I get together with my writers, and we come up with a point of view that will fit each one. Actually, we always start out with a clear slate—we let ideas grow, tossing them back and forth.

The one program that is the exception — one that we pretty well know about ahead of time — is the annual show we do with James Stewart and his wife, Gloria. They're my neighbors in Beverly Hills.

As almost everyone knows, the business of writing comedy is a serious one. Those who doubt this need only visit my set on Stage 2 at Revue Universal Studios. Look for the saddest — appearing men around. They will be my writers.

They get together and play with ideas. They call me after a while and say: "Jack, we've got it. This is fine. We think we have a good story line now."

They tell me where they are going with the show—what the script will be. We spend a great deal of time editing. We never let a show reach the cameras exactly the way it was first written.

But when you stop to think about it, my four writers have good reason to be happy fellows.

In addition to their unprecedented tenure with me, their love of life can be explained by the two Emmys and six Emmy nominations they have received from members of the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

They have the opportunity to write lines for some of the biggest names in the entertainment business.

They have an employer who bears no resemblance to the miserly figure they have created.

My writers are Sam Perrin, George Balzer, Al Gordon and Hal Goldman. I think their team work is a record life-span for a group of comedy writers. Perrin and Balzer have been writing for me for 22 years. Gordon and Goldman can chalk up 17.

I can be fooled more easily than my writers. Sometimes I

Lake Land in Little River Allotment

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Little River County has been allotted loans totaling $589,500 for a pilot rural renewal program. It was announced here Tuesday.

The county is one of 10 in five states designated Feb. 26 by the Agriculture Department to test the country counterpart of urban renewal.

The other counties are in Missouri, Iowa, Florida and West Virginia, but the legislatures of these states have not yet passed the legislation necessary to make their counties eligible for the program.

Congress authorized the program in 1964 and set aside $1.2 million for pilot programs. The Arkansas Legislature passed enabling legislation for the state in 1963.

The Little River project will be administered by the county Rural Renewal Development Authority, headed by Rep. Marion H. Crank of Foreman.

The Farmers Home Administration loans and projects: —$105,000 for purchase of 40 acres of land two miles east of Foreman on Highway 32 and construction of 10 - 12 modest homes to be sold to low income rural residents.

—$36,500 for purchase of 770 acres between Ashdown and Ogden, to be subdivided and sold to farmers to add to their farms, or to develop into family-type farms.

—$60,000 for purchase of 17 acres at Winthrop and Construction of seven houses.

—$95,000 for purchase of 614 acres along the south shore of Millwood Lake, to be used as a forestry management, conservation and recreation area, including lodge, cabins, swimming pool, riding stable, camping area and 18 - hole golf course.

—$200,000 for purchase of 40 acres two miles south of Ashdown on U.S. 71 and for construction of at least 20 houses

Unauthorized Divers Sought

PORT CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Reports of unauthorized divers around two Nuclear power submarines set off a port wide search Tuesday.

After several hours, they agreed the intruders were not spies seeking secrets but large sea turtles.

McClellan Has Nasal Infection

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., entered Walter Reed Army Medical Center here Tuesday for examination of a nasal infection.

McClellan, 68, of Camden, Ark., planned only a brief stay at the hospital.

Chief Black Dog, a powerful Osage chief who lived after the white man came here, was interested in the strange ways of the white man and all the interesting looking things in the stores. He and his friends each bought an umbrella one day. They then went down to the edge of the river, raised their umbrellas, stuck them in the sand and went to sleep under their "dear little tents" as they called them.

Promises He Will Be Rough on Johnson

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater has indicated that if he gets the Republican presidential nomination his campaign against President Johnson will be rougher than those of recent years.

But he has been moving cautiously in his double task of trying to cool any opposition to him among Republicans while going ahead with his efforts to sew up the nomination.

The Associated Press recently asked him his position on a number of issues. The answers, prepared by his staff from some of his recent statements, were released over the week-end.

He was asked what the main campaign issues will be. Several were listed and wound up with this: "... the dark shadow of scandal that hangs even over the white house itself." There has been no scandal talk in recent campaigns.

There was no explanation for what Goldwater meant. But, since he considers this a main point, it can be assumed he would hammer away at it.

If Goldwater gets the nomination, which looks likely, he will need not only all the Republican votes he can get afterward but also those of the usually Democratic Southern states. He has said a Republican couldn't win without them.

His votes against the civil rights bill angered a number of Republicans already against him. So far as can be seen it lost him none of his supporters. It probably endeared him to a lot of Southern whites.

He said the bill, voted into law July 2, flies in the face of the Constitution and enforcement of some of its sections would need a "federal police force of mammoth proportions."

He meant the sections prohibiting discrimination in public accommodations and employment. But his "no" vote gave Pennsylvania's Gov. William W. Scranton, his leading opponent for the nomination, an issue at the Republican convention opening next Monday in San Francisco.

As the Republican platform committee gathered there Sunday for days of hearings before hammering the party's positions and promises together, the Scranton forces' strategy was obvious: How to create divisions at the hearings and come up with conclusions the Goldwater forces couldn't support.

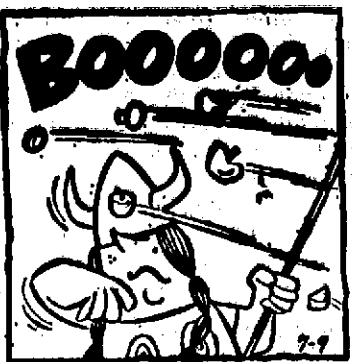

The senator and his advisers had plenty of time to prepare for such a move. Equally obvious for him would be to compromise where he could to avoid party splits.

But there was a very sore point: How compromise on a civil rights plank without alienating the South since, if elected president, Goldwater would be expected to carry through on whatever the platform promised? The Goldwater forces seemed prepared for this, too.

On a television show Sunday, the senator's chief spokesman on the platform committee, Rep. John J. Rhodes, an Arizona Republican, was asked about Goldwater's views on a

Miseries of Mind to Be Salk's Foe

By RALPH DIGHTON

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP)—Rising on a hill overlooking the Pacific is a multitowered fortress soon to be filled with man's newest weapons against his oldest foe: disease.

Commander of this forbidding battlement is Jonas Salk—already the conqueror of one scourge, polio, and now engaged in a three-front war against all the miseries of body and mind.

As his generals, he has summoned eight of the world's outstanding research scientists and given them free hand to map their own battle plans for a radical and revolutionary assault to break down the mysterious processes of living; on these processes, he believes, lie hidden the keys to mental and physical health.

To gain a better understanding of the processes the National Foundation, formerly the March of Dimes, has provided 18 million toward a laboratory—called the Salk Institute for Biological Studies—estimated to cost an eventual $30 million, on a 27-acre site donated by the City of San Diego adjacent to the new San Diego campus of the University of California.

All the equipment and human genius as well will be channeled into three basic fields of research: immunology, virology and genetics.

As Salk puts it, "we want to go into some rather basic questions—the nature of living material, what goes wrong with it and what we can do about it so that we can conquer disease."

"We are not going to try any spectacular end runs, we will simply be trying to understand."

"If we could understand why some animals are intolerant of disease, in other words, immune—"

"If in time we could understand the relationship between immunology and brain mechanism, how the cell remembers what to attack—"

"Then we would have some very powerful tools against disease."

Blytheville Courier News Editor Hank Haines found out why the Arkansas Razorbacks are popular when he visited Nebraska recently.

Introduced as an Arkansan, he was asked, "How are the Razorbacks going to do this year?"

Another Nebraskan quipped, "That's about like asking a preacher if he'd like to say a few words."

Haines asked the Nebraskan to define what there is about the Razorbacks that captured his fancy.

"They're exciting — reckless and quick," he replied.

W. L. Wiles and his son Charlie teamed up recently to catch a reluctant but greedy bass.

Charlie hooked the fish first, but it hung up on some brush and broke his 15-pound test line. Then the fishing slowed.

About two hours later when the ditch began filling up from a nearby pump, they started retrieving some nice bass.

One of them had Charlie's line in his mouth, hook, sinker and bait.

Many of our most beautiful stories come from the Indians. We have Indian summer, they say, because just before the Sun-God takes his long nap every winter, he fills his great pipe and dreamily smokes through the long hours. The blue, filmy clouds that float over come from the Sun-God's pipe, and that is the mist of Indian summer.

civil rights plank.

He gave an answer which might pacify Republicans and soothe the South.

He said Goldwater would go along with a plank, suggested by Scranton, which called for penalizing states that denied their citizens a vote. Under the 14th Amendment a state could be deprived of representatives in Congress in proportion to the number of people not voting.

But this could never be done without a tremendous fight in Congress.

Rhodes was also asked what Goldwater, as president, would do about enforcing the Civil Rights Act which he said is contrary to the Constitution.

Rhodes had an answer for that, too. "Sen. Goldwater as president of the United States would certainly require a reasonable degree of enforcement which I think would please anybody."

Reasonable is a debatable word. Enforcement which seemed reasonable to Southern whites, who oppose the Civil Rights Act, might greatly displease Negroes who want its protection.

Lema Starts Well in the British Open

By TOM REEDY

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—Champagne Tony Lema, second choice in the betting although he has never played in Britain before, shot a one-over-par 37 on the front nine today in the first round of the British Open Golf Championship.

Lema had all pars except on the fourth hole.

Doug Ford, former Masters and PGA champion, took 36 for the same route over the Old Course at historic St. Andrews.

Play was under really rough conditions. Huge gusts of wind blew in from the North Sea and the greens were dried out and lightning fast.

More Nude Parades for Big Fanny

RELIGION IN THE NEWS
By FRED COLEMAN
AGASSI, B. C. (AP) — "No more nude parades," said Big Fanny, the 230-pound grandmother who used to lead her religious sect through parades in the raw. The destruction of property stopped too. After a turbulent 60-year history fighting government authorities with nude parades, bombings, and the Freedom sect now appears to be living up to its original pacifist ideals. Storgoff, 56, better known across Canada as Big Fanny, the Freedomite spokeswoman, believes her religious sect is a victim of a miscarriage of justice which must be corrected. A main sore spot is one of the most unusual prisons in the world. The fireproof, concrete compound was built here in 1962 to house 100 members of the sect sentenced to terms of up to 10 years for terrorist acts, mostly arson. Behind the prison lies a long history of friction between a democratic state seeking to protect the rights of all its citizens and a radical religious sect which believes it must resist all government authority. Big Fanny and the 550 other members of her sect are camped here outside the prison, 75 miles southeast of Vancouver. They live in 142 tarpaper shacks which local authorities see as an eyesore against the background of the lush green Fraser Valley ringed by snow-capped Rocky Mountain peaks. Many of the men wear beards. Some of the women wear babushkas, peasant blouses and ankle-length skirts. They converse in Russian, cook borscht, chew sunflower seeds, and find part-time work picking fruit. But mostly they just wait, hoping to embarrass the British Columbia government into releasing their brethren. Their story began in czarist Russia with their parent sect, the Dukhobors, in 1895. The Dukhobors, a pacifist offshoot of the Russian Orthodox Church, refused military service. Czar Nicholas II turned his Cossack troops on the Dukhobors to force conscription. The sect responded by collecting rifles in a pile and burning them. Fire since has been a favored form of Dukhobor protest. Leo Tolstoy, the author, contacted Quaker groups in London and together they helped the Dukhobors migrate to Canada. The trouble centers on the Sons of Freedom, the minority radical wing of the sect which broke with the Orthodox Dukhobors 40 years ago and settled in the Kootenay Valley, 40 miles east of Vancouver. Since then, by some accounts, the Freedomites have been charged with 800 acts of violence. They often stripped and paraded nude to demonstrate equality before God, and demand equal rights. They claimed the government had taken everything else and it might as well take their clothes. Friction mushroomed over the years culminating in the spree of terrorism which led to arrests, trials and the Agassiz prison in 1962. Big Fanny and her followers marched to Vancouver, spent the winter in ski-dow hotels and demonstrated daily. The public and press decided the best response was to ignore them. In late August 1963, they

Business in U.S. Really Healthier

NEW YORK (AP) — Taking stock after the Fourth of July holiday, many sectors of both government and business find themselves healthier than usual. Uncle Sam has about $2 billion more cash on hand than he thought he would. Steel production slipped much less than it usually does in an Independence Day shortened work week. Retail sales in many stores were better last week than in the like holiday week a year ago. Car sales are holding up surprisingly well as the end of the season approaches. The Treasury has been selling more U.S. Savings Bonds than a year ago. This country's foreign trade hit a record high earlier this year, the government reports. And now it expects the whole year to turn out better than it first thought, despite the roadblocks the European Common Market might throw up. Banks have increased their business, and their profits, in the first half of the year. Few see much cause for worry in the immediate future. And while the banks were increasing their deposits and their loans, they and the finance companies were setting a record high in consumer installment credit. extended. At the same time their collections on outstanding debt also rose to highs. Prices of blue chip stocks climbed to peaks before the holiday, and then topped that performance on the first day after the long weekend. Perhaps the most surprising of all this postholiday outpouring of better than usual news is the flush condition of the U.S. Treasury. It has just tallied its books for the fiscal year that ended June 30 and finds it has a cash balance of $10.2 billion. That doesn't mean the federal debt hasn't gone up—it has. But the cash on hand is a pleasant $2 billion more than the Treasury had expected. Officials explain that government spending wasn't quite as fast a clip as they had expected. Also, tax receipts were higher than anticipated. Part of this was due to a rise in personal incomes and corporate profits, so that even with the rates cut, the Treasury's take was higher.

Space House May Orbit in Five Years

By HOWARD BENEDICT
HUNTINGTON BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A six-man space research station with built-in centrifuge, shower, kitchen, lavatory and other conveniences of home could be orbiting the earth within five years. That's the conclusion of a report submitted to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration recently by the Douglas Co. missile and space systems division. NASA last year commissioned Douglas and a main subcontractor, International Business Machines, to define a manned orbiting research laboratory which would test man's physical tolerance and proficiency under extended weightless conditions. The station also must enable the crew to conduct scientific investigations and to study physical laws and phenomena which will affect the performance of future spacecraft and equipment. he had accepted De Gaulle's invitation to visit Paris in the fall. It was generally thought last October, when he relinquished the chancellorship to Erhard, that Adenauer would fade quietly into political oblivion. He had no such intention. He got a small but well appointed office in the Bundeshaus West Germany's Capitol, and insisted on remaining chairman of the Christian Democratic party. He writes and speaks with the energy and clarity of a man 30 years younger. Adenauer is known as a man of few, simple and clear ideas. One is unalterable opposition to communism. Another is the conviction that the Communists are thinking more about taking over Germany than anything else. He tests every turn in foreign affairs against those ideas.

ment. Robert L. Johnson, Douglas vice president for research and engineering, said the proposed lab would orbit for more than a year more than 200 miles above the earth. It would be the size of a large house trailer and would be launched by a Saturn rocket. The crew would travel to and from the station in modified two-man Gemini or three-man Apollo spacecraft. The six men would return to earth on a staggered schedule, to be replaced by other astronauts. Johnson reported the laboratory has two provisions to help overcome long-term exposure to weightlessness and the possible adverse effects. The entire laboratory can rotate slowly to provide a small degree of artificial gravity. Johnson said. In the center of the lab is an on-board centrifuge which can accommodate two men at a time. The centrifuge can whirl them to as high as nine times the force of gravity on earth to simulate re-entry forces, he said. Space medical experts feel that a form of artificial gravity will be essential for astronauts making trips of a year or more to Mars or Venus. Otherwise, they believe muscle tone and other body systems might weaken so that they would not be able to withstand the re-entry. Crew quarters and laboratory areas in the space station occupy a sphere-shaped inner pressure shell. The living area occupies half of the sphere and the working area the other half, with the centrifuge between. There are accommodations for a crew of six, but the design permits comfortable temporary occupancy for eight—the number aboard during periods of crew exchange. There also is room for recreation and physical fitness activities. The galley has facilities for reconstituting dehydrated food and for making hot and cold drinks. A small refrigerator permits storage of medical supplies and test samples.

Adenauer Is Starting New Campaign

By CARL HARTMAN
Bonn, Germany (AP) — Former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is starting a new political career at the age of 88—leader of the opposition to his successor's foreign policy. It's a low-key opposition, but opposition none the less. Adenauer believes Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's government should work more closely with French President Charles de Gaulle. Erhard, with the American attitude in mind, is wary of De Gaulle. France and West Germany, Adenauer told this correspondent in an interview Monday, are not significant separately but together they can form a dike against Soviet penetration into Europe. He quoted De Gaulle as saying: "I am for German reunification because I don't want to wake up one morning and hear that the Russians are on the banks of the Rhine." France and West Germany would form a stronger dike, Adenauer says, if other European nations, including Britain, could be brought to join them. But he has little trust in Britain—especially since he is convinced that Britain is soon going to have a Labor government. It's not that he considers the Labor party to be Communist. He feels that even the British Conservatives lean too much toward Moscow. Adenauer insists that his friendship for De Gaulle is not directed against the United States, but he feels the need to remind Washington repeatedly of the dangers he sees in trusting Soviet Premier Khrushchev. He appears to share De Gaulle's idea that the United States is turning too much of its attention toward Red China. De Gaulle and Adenauer had a long talk on Friday that made De Gaulle 10 minutes late for a joint French-West German Cabinet meeting. Adenauer said he packed and trekked the 75 miles to Agassiz.
